Dimitrios Asteriou,
Professor in Quantitative Methods

School of Social Sciences
Hellenic Open University
56-57 Bouboulinas Str, 26222
Tel: +30 2610 367446
d.a.asteriou@eap.gr

Professor Dimitrios Asteriou (BSc in Economics, University of Macedonia, 1995; MSc in Economics, University of Macedonia, 1997; PhD in Economics, City University, London, 2000) is a Professor in Quantitative Methods at the Hellenic Open University. In the past he has been employed as a Lecturer at the University of Reading and as a Senior Lecturer at City University, London. He is the author of three books in the topic of ''Applied Econometrics'' and he has published more than 50 academic research papers in peer-reviewed journals. He has served as the Secretary General of the European Economics and Finance Society (http://www.eefs-eu.org/) and as a Guest Editor in various academic journals (Journal of Policy Modelling, Applied Economics, Regional Economics, Journal of Economic Integration).

He has 17 years of teaching experience at undergraduate level (since 1998) and postgraduate level (since 2002), teaching modules such as Statistics for Economists, Applied Econometrics, Financial Economics, Mathematical Economics, Macroeconomics and Applied Economics. His research interests lie in the area of applied econometrics with an emphasis on financial econometrics, macroeconomic and economic growth. His research work has been cited several times from various researchers in the field and he has published papers in journals such as Review of Economic Development, Scottish Journal of Political Economy, Energy Economics, International Journal of Finance and Economics, Applied Economics, Economic Modelling, Journal of Economic Integration, Journal of Policy Modelling, Regional Studies, Journal of Economic Asymmetries, Journal of Property Investment and Finance, Journal of Economic Studies, Managerial Auditing Journal, Advances in Accounting, etc. Finally, he has presented his research output in more than 70 International Scientific Conferences.