Email to: tounta.eleni@ac.eap.gr

Eleni Tounta was born in Athens in 1973. She studied classical philology at the University of Athens (1991-1995). In 1997 she received her Master degree in history of religions at the University of Liège (scholarship by Onassis Foundation, 1996-1997). She obtained her doctorate in medieval history in 2006 at the University of Athens. In 2006-2007 she was research assistant for medieval history at the University of Heidelberg. At present she is associate professor in medieval history at the Aristotle University of Thessaloniki. Since 2008-9 she is adjunct faculty for the Hellenic Open University, in the undergraduate program “Studies in European Civilization”, thematic unit EPO 30 “Byzantine and Western World”, and coordinator of EPO 30 since 2017-18. Her research interests focus on social and cultural history with an emphasis on medieval historiography, the Norman Kingdom of Sicily, and Western-Byzantine relations in the High and Late Middle Ages. Her current research deals with Italian and French early humanistic discourses and their production of space and knowledge of the East and the eastern Mediterranean.
