Email to: siougle.effrosyni@ac.eap.gr

Dr Efrosini Siougle is a special scientist at the Hellenic Data Protection Authority (HDPa) since 1999. Since 2024 she is head of the Advisory and Compliance Department. She holds a BSc in Informatics (1996), an MSc in Information Systems (1998), and a PhD in Quality Certification and Personal Data Protection (2018) from the Department of Informatics, Athens University of Economics and Business (AUEB). She is a postdoctoral researcher at AUEB, specializing in corporate certifications and data protection. Since 2018 she has been teaching at the National Centre for Public Administration and Local Government and in various training programs, while since 2022 she is a member of the Collaborating Academic Staff of the Hellenic Open University. She has published articles in international scientific journals and conferences, and serves as a reviewer. She represents the HDPa in several expert groups of the European Data Protection Board and has participated in numerous data protection and security investigations and audits, working groups, committees, seminars and conferences, as well as in EU-funded research projects (ByDesign, ByDefault, ByRisk, XTrust-6G). During her undergraduate studies, she was awarded a scholarship from the Zosimades Foundation after excelling in a written examination held by the Ministry of Education.
