

T h e o d o r o s T s e k e r i s

SCM12: Transportation Systems Management

Email to: tsekeris.theodoros@ac.eap.gr

Dr. Theodoros Tsekeris is a Senior Research Fellow (Professor rank) in Transportation Economics at the Centre of Planning and Economic Research (KEPE). He is tutoring the Transportation Systems Management (SCM12) module in the MSc course in Supply Chain Management at EAP. He is the Head Coordinator of the National Productivity Board of Greece. He has held academic research positions at the University of California at Berkeley and École Polytechnique Fédérale de Lausanne, Switzerland, served as an Extraordinary Professor at the School of Public Leadership at Stellenbosch University, South Africa, and has taught at the Panteion University, the University of Thessaly and the University of the Aegean. He studied Civil Engineering and Transportation Planning and Economics at the City, University of London, University College London and Imperial College, University of London, and the National Technical University of Athens (Ph.D.). He has published in high-impact journals and coordinated research projects in the fields of transportation, shipping, tourism, urban/regional development and productivity/efficiency analysis.

URL: https://www.kepe.gr/en/user/tsek_en

Google Scholar: <https://scholar.google.com/citations?user=owafok4AAAJ&hl=en&oi=ao>