

G e o r g i a C h i o n i

Academic title/subject module/Institution

Email to: chioni.georgia@ac.eap.gr

Georgia Chioni is a postdoctoral researcher at University of West Attica, with research related to issues of New Technologies, Change Management, Entrepreneurship and Sociology of Law. She holds a PhD from the European University Institute in Law and New Technologies and two master's degrees from the Law School and the European Institute of Saarbruecken in Germany on German Law, European Law, New Technologies and Intellectual Property. She completed her basic law degree studies at the Aristotle University of Thessaloniki with a grade of "Excellent". She has years of teaching experience in public bodies. She has also participated in conferences and has published monographs and scientific articles on issues of law and historical research. She has worked in European Institutions (European Commission, European Parliament), and in independent administrative authorities. (Competition Commission, Ports Regulatory Authority). The scientific research was honored in 2018 with the Academy of Athens Award.

Selected Publications

1. Regulating Frequencies: Actors, Policy making and Legislative Framework in the field of mobile and satellite communications, European Public Law Series, Volume V, Esperia Publications, April 1999.
2. The rise and fall of satellite personal communication systems-Business and legal issues, Peter Lang, 2004
3. Intergovernmentalism and the Internet, Geopolitical Reality, EEED, 2007, vol. 27, issue 1, pp. 217-223.
4. The Ownership Regime on the Island of Thassos during the Period of Turkish Rule, Published by the Thassos Studies Society, Academy of Athens Award (Agidos Tabakopoulou) 2018 (Academy of Athens Prize)
5. Media and Competition Law - Concentration of Control and Law 3592/2007, EEED, 2007, vol. 27, issue 4, pp. 757-769.