A t h i n a E c o n o m o u

Associate Professor in Economics of Social Protection, Department of Economics, University of Thessaly

Email to: aeconomou@uth.gr

Dr. Athina Economou is an Associate Professor in Economics of Social Protection at the Economics Department, University of Thessaly, Greece. She has previously taught as an Adjunct Lecturer at the TEI of Larissa. From 2009 onwards, she teaches at the Economics Department of the University of Thessaly. She has been teaching in the Hellenic Open University since 2017. Her current research interests lie within the fields of Applied Social Economics, with emphasis on individual health inequalities with respect to labour market performance, income and social inequalities, social welfare systems, as well as on their impact upon social attitudes formation and individual well-being. She has published in prestigious academic journals such as The Review of Income and Wealth, Public Choice, International Labour Review, Journal of Economic Studies and, The Journal of Socio-Economics. She has participated in book collections and has been invited as a speaker to seminars in Greece and abroad.

Selected Publications

1. Giannake, G., Economou, A., Metaxas, T. and Geitona, M. (2023). “Medical Tourism in the Region of Thessaly, Greece: Opinions and Perspectives from Healthcare Providers”, Sustainability, 15 (10): 7864.
2. Tatsis, F., Nikolakakis, N., Mazetas, D., Gourgoulianis, K., Economou, A., Diamantopoulos, E., Dragoti, E. and Gouva, M., 2022. “The shame and psychopathology effect in somatization. A comparative study between financial and health crisis periods”, International Journal of Psychiatry, 7(3): 164-176.
3. Economou, A., 2022. “The socioeconomic gradient in coping attitudes towards the COVID-19 measures in social welfare regimes in Europe”, Social Sciences & Humanities Open, 6(1): 100334.
4. Economou, A. and Theodossiou, I., 2015. “Join the Union and be Safe: The Effect of Unionisation on Occupational Safety and Health in the European Union”, LABOUR: Review of Labour Economics and Industrial Relations, 29(2): 127-140.
5. Economou, A. and Theodossiou, I., 2011. “Poor and Sick: Estimating the Relationship between Household Income and Health”, The Review of Income and Wealth, 57(3): 395-411.