

IOANNIS KIORIDIS (Serres, Greece, 1966, kioridoan@spanll.uoa.gr) is an associate professor in the Department of Spanish Language and Literature at the National and Kapodistrian University of Athens. He has been a lecturer at the Hellenic Open University since 2010, where he teaches Spanish literature, history and culture. He holds a degree in Greek History and Archaeology from the University of Crete and in Spanish Language and Literature from the National and Kapodistrian University of Athens. He has published more than sixty articles and contributions in scientific journals, conference proceedings and collective volumes. His most notable works include: the translation into Greek of the Song of Roncesvalles, together with Prof. Alberto Montaner, 2025; the translation into Greek of the Chronicle of Ramón Muntaner, bilingual edition of 2016, in collaboration with professors from the University of Valencia; and the translation into the same language of the Song of My Cid, in collaboration with Stergios Ntertsas and Alberto Montaner (2019). He is the coordinator of the Spanish Literature I Thematic Unit at the Greek Open University. He has participated in a mobility programme within the framework of the STA Erasmus Programme. Department of Philology, University of Vilnius, Lithuania 11-14/11/2024. External evaluator or member of the tribunal for doctoral theses at the Complutense, Jaén and Zaragoza Universities. Since 2005, he has participated in ten research projects that are also related to educational and scientific innovation.

For further information on his profile, see also:

<http://scholar.uoa.gr/kioridoan>

<https://en-uoa-gr.academia.edu/IoannisKioridis>

<https://orcid.org/0000-0002-6577-100>