Vangelis Kalambakas is a film director, producer and cinematographer. His filmography includes fiction and documentary films, many of which have received major distinctions at international festivals and have been screened both in Greece and abroad. His educational work encompasses, among other things, many years of teaching at the Film Department of the Aristotle University of Thessaloniki, producing instructional material as a scientific associate for the Hellenic Open University, and teaching audiovisual language in adult education programs at the National and Kapodistrian University of Athens. He has collaborated with the Hellenic Adult Education Association on various Greek and European research projects focusing on the utilization of cinema in education. He has also authored educational textbooks on filmmaking for the Youth and Lifelong Learning Foundation and for the "Kallipos" digital repository. Since 2018, he has been teaching as an Adjunct Faculty Member (SEP) in undergraduate and postgraduate study programs at the Hellenic Open University.
